TYPE R

2023 Civic Type R

To broaden the appeal of the Type R, Honda simultaneously turned up the performance, while making it more livable day to day. Even the styling has become more sophisticated, with functional aerodynamics that increase downforce while still giving the Type R its signature look.

2021 Civic Type R

Honda's goal for the previous generation was to create the ultimate no-compromises, track-focused Civic that prioritized ultimate handling over comfort. Its aggressive, angular look-at-me styling appeals to younger buyers who want the hot hatch image.

2023 Civic Type R Highlights

TRACK-DOMINANT The fastest production front wheel drive vehicle to lap the Nürburgring in Germany

IMPROVED PERFORMANCE More power and torque, quicker shifting and improved suspension for even better handling

CAPABILITY & USEABILITY Seats that provide phenomenal support yet are more comfortable for daily driving

FUNCTIONAL IMPROVEMENTS Widened fenders, redesigned front and rear fascia and pedestal-mount wing demonstrate more restrained styling yet provide even more downforce

SOPHISTICATED DESIGN Improved useability and a functional, focused design make the new Type R more appealing to a wider audience

CUTTING EDGE TECHNOLOGY Honda's latest in-vehicle technologies: 10.2" digital instrument cluster and 9" color touchscreen featuring the LogR data acquisition app

The Bottom Line

The all-new Civic Type R goes faster, stops quicker and turns even better, making it the highest performing Civic, ever. Honda engineers worked their magic to also make the Type R the perfect companion for non-track days as well, by making it more comfortable and easier to drive every day. The Civic Type R: You Just Have To Drive It
